

Apologist for internationally recognized terrorist organization Hamas; called Hamas's 2006 election victory "a Vote for Clarity."

Tweeted, "Isn't it the time for a popular Palestinian revolution in the form of a third intifada?" In the Second Intifada, over 800 Israeli civilians were murdered and over 5,000 wounded in Palestinian terrorist attacks.

Compared Israel to Nazis, an act deemed anti-Semitic by the UN. Tweeted, "Supporting Zionism is not atonement for the Holocaust, but its continuation in spirit."

Defended Hamas's kidnapping and sadistic treatment of Israeli soldier Gilad Shalit: "Is Hamas violating Shalit's most basic rights by denying the ICRC [International Committee of the Red Cross] direct access to him...? Is it not illegal for Hamas to hold on to Shalit in the first place?"

In his proposed "One State Solution," which calls for the annihilation of a Jewish state within any borders, he admits that "we couldn't rule out some disastrous situation [for the Jews]."

Accused Mahmoud Abbas of being a "collaborator" for engaging in the peace process with Israel: "...Israel hoped the way would be clear to sign a "peace" deal with chief Palestinian collaborator Mahmoud Abbas..."
